9th Annual Runathon

Star bright, star flight, the Runathon kids were fifty in flight, running with all their might. On Wednesday, April 23, 2014, the Eve Fenton Love-All Foundation celebrated its 9th Annual Runathon, working in concert with the great, one and only, New York Road Runners Foundation. This yearly event, showcases the special physical education that every youngster requires for their future health and success. Cliff Sperber, a gentleman with all the attributes that one could desire, especially a humanitarian powerhouse of knowledge, has made sure that every event went forward with success. To know Cliff is to love him for his blessing to humanity and our future generation. Notwithstanding, Gherman Martinez has navigated with a forthright and well targeted approach and a very happy disposition. Additionally, Zach Barnwell, a newcomer to the NYRR is a proven asset and very well qualified.

The FedEx staff reflected a super special humanitarian attitude. They brought gift bags for all the kids and cheered them on to victory to receive a well designed trophy. A few of the managers of several FedEx stores worked intensely with the New York Road Runners Foundation, Lt. James Shannon and Fire Fighter Ricano Duignam of the New York City Fire Department, the school coach, our sponsors and or course, our Foundation to make sure this mission was accomplished. Harry Zayas and Monique Brock-Pate were on their cell phones practically every minute to coordinate the entire event. Challenges were many but were met with determination and dedication to ultimate success. The winds were 45 mph which made the race a jet propelled runathon to victory. Some of the plates on the table flew into the air like flying saucers. This day proved to be a day of love, laugh and be happy.

Harry Zayas navigated a huge undertaking. The challenges were huge with the velocity of the wind. He directed all the volunteers and sponsors as a team. Vicki planned the event and Harry carried out the mission. The New York Fire Department, New York Road Runners and FedEx were the three musketeers and catalysts to an incredible endeavor with ultimate success. The Fire Department brought many gifts and lectured the children on fire safety. Furthermore the children were shown the fire truck as well.

Our Dream Team sponsors proved to be the best of the best. Famous Famiglia and Mariella's Bread Factory brought a number of scrumptious and mouth watering pizza pies. Carmine's Restaurant brought platters for over one hundred people, bringing smiles to everyone's faces. Artie's Deli – the name speaks for itself, Siggis Yogurts was a treat in an of itself, the New York Yankees, D'Agostino's, Gristedes and Ruths Chris Restaurant, the ultimate in picturesque platters of imported cheese and gourmet crackers, a number of platters of nutritious fruit, Tropicana, Ferrero USA and PepsiCola Company. In essence, it has been said that grandma's baking aroma was always sweet. This event was synonymous with that adage due to the fact that our Ninth Annual event was the sweet smell of success.
