Golden Jubilee Financial Literacy Event

On Wednesday, November 4, 2009, the Eve Fenton Love-All Foundation hosted a financial literacy event at the Museum of American Finance located on Wall St. This outreach program was exclusively for senior high school students taking courses at Baruch College and for students attending Baruch College. The first item on the agenda was an enlightening museum tour. Thereafter, there was a reception commencing with a speech by Vicki Fenton, encompassing a Proclamation which honored the Eve Fenton Love-All Foundation from the one and only New York State Attorney General Andrew Cuomo. This event marked our fifty-fourth event in over three years. In turn, our Foundation surprised the inter-governmental official, Mr. Paul Thomas, with a Merit of Achievement Award for our New York State Attorney General's humanitarian endeavors.

Vicki Fenton, who founded the organization, gave an inspirational speech with the theme, "Determination is the Gateway to Success."™ The students listened intently, because they realized that challenges must never deter you in your ultimate quest for success.

Mr. Paul Thomas was a dynamic orator, who delivered a speech to the students outlining a creative pattern for their future endeavors. He enthralled the students with style and grace.

A matinee energizer packed with gourmet delights was an incentive for our next outreach program speech by the one and only Bill Dobrow. He delivered this renaissance of business ideals and goal setting for the future entrepreneurs. In essence, financial literacy is the key to a successful future by laying the foundation for a bountiful economy ahead.

Special thanks to our charismatic volunteers: Erwin Avila, who was Vicki's right and left hand man throughout the event. He proved that hospitality is a quality which makes him a one in a million, indispensable supporter. Now on to an angel by the name of Judith Shapiro, who made sure that she delivered one of our sponsor's delectable food for this event. She picked up her husband at the hospital, brought him home and then brought the food to the event. Thereafter, she went on to work and came home to nurse her husband after her good deeds. Our Foundation is grateful to people that walk the humanitarian road for our future generation. Not withstanding, a great financial educator by the name of Daniel Kamelhar worked tirelessly with our Foundation to make sure that this event brought a renaissance of business ideals to the Baruch students.

Last and most important, a gigantic thank you to the President of the Museum of American Finance and his assistant, Lindsay Seeger, for their benevolent donation of a great tour and space to have this memorable financial literacy event. They should be considered the best of the best.
